

January 2008

Unity Church & Spiritual Center of Syracuse is pleased to invite your application as artisan/craftsperson/service-provider for our 7th annual Unity Arts and Craft Festival on Saturday, June 21, 2008 (10 am to 5 pm).

Most of those who have participated in previous Unity festivals will be pleased to know that we have once again scheduled our festival to NOT coincide with the Syracuse Jazz Fest, while Unity Church will once again be the location -- 300 West Seneca Turnpike, a heavily trafficked street in the "Valley" east of Onondaga Hill. Vendor space is limited. Please apply as early as possible (and no later than April 30th) if you wish to participate this year.

This festival is intended to celebrate the incredible creativity that our participants so beautifully exhibit and that we all possess within. Thus, any demonstration of your work would be especially meaningful and appreciated. The cost for an outdoor 10 X 10' space is only $50, indoor variable-sized space is $65 (with possible access to electricity for a small fee). There will be no end-of-show contribution expected from you. New this year is a requirement that tables be covered.

While this remains a juried show requiring photos or slides of your work, there is no jury fee. Only quality, handcrafted items and highly regarded healing arts professionals will be selected as appropriate for this show. Food will be for sale on site and at nearby restaurants throughout the day. Thanks for your interest in this event. Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have, before or after submitting an application. We look forward to a fun and profitable day with you.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hazzard
